Sightseeing - History - Narrow Boat Ride - Architecture - Street Food - Market - Cafe

We will travel by train from Teddington to Edgware Road Station then take a short walk to Paddington Basin, now redeveloped as part of the Paddington Waterside scheme. After a quick stop at M & S café on the waterside for drinks/toilets we will continue on an interesting 15 minute walk on to delightful Little Venice at the junction of the Regent's Canal and Grand Union Canal, surrounded by elegant 18th century Nash houses. Here we will board a traditional narrow boat at 12.00 noon for the 55 min ride to Camden Lock. (*Options – buy a one way ticket and plan to walk back along the towpath to Little Venice (2 miles) or buy a return ticket if you want to also return by boat at 2pm). Our canal ride passes through Regent's Park with glimpses of the antelope terraces and Snowdon's Aviary at London Zoo and more lovely houses before arriving at Camden Lock. Here we can buy lunch or look around the market for an hour before the return at 2pm to Little Venice on foot or by boat. A stop for a cup of tea at 3.00pm in a converted boat at Little Venice will refresh us before we catch our train at Warwick Avenue station. This short walk enables us to see more of the traditional architecture of the area.
