TWO TEMPLE PLACE 7 MAR 19

Art - History - Architecture
River Thames - Cafe - Shop

The Power of Seeing is the eighth Winter Exhibition to take place at Two Temple Place and runs until 22 April. The exhibition will bring together over 190 paintings, drawings, daguerreotypes, metal work, and plaster casts to illustrate how John Ruskin's attitude to aesthetic beauty shaped his radical views on culture and society. This beautiful house is one of London's architectural gems, an extraordinary late Victorian mansion built by William Waldorf Astor. It was designed for use as Astor's estate office by the architect, John Loughborough Pearson, and finished in 1895. It is now owned by the registered charity, The Bulldog Trust and supports the charitable activities of the Trust through exhibitions and events hosted in the building.

From Waterloo Station we walk (15 mins) across Waterloo Bridge to visit Two Temple Place on Embankment. There will be time for coffee before viewing the exhibition and for lunch afterwards. There may also be time to explore the surrounding Temple area. In the café, there is a delicious selection of food, including sandwiches, sausage rolls, hot soup and sweet treats. A selection of hot and cold drinks will also be available. A wide variety of gifts, souvenirs and original art works are on sale in the shop.
